WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7, 1848.

The Steamer Senator.

The new steamer Senator Captain Samuel Seem re arrived here yesterday forenoon on her first trip between Portland and this city connecting with the Railroad This is decidedly the heaviest and most substantially built boat that has ever been upon our waters, and is undoubtedly fit for European voyages She was built in New York for Capt James Cushing of East Boston, the owner of the Admiral and Governor and cost about ninety thousand dollars The evidences of great strength and convenience, and safety are visible in every part of her, and she is fitted for every class of passengers—her forward cabin is roomy and well adapted for the comfort of the multitude who travel from necessity and who must travel at a cheap rate Attention has also been paid to the necessities and decencies of decent passengers

Her arrangements for full price passengers are really elegant The Ladies Cabin is surpassingly elegant and richly decorated and splendidly furnished Its double and single state rooms are furnished in a style of great magnificence

The following are some of her dimensions: The engine is of 350 horse power, of 50 inch drive and 11 feet stroke Her water wheels are 30 feet in diameter The length of her keel is 219 feet 5 inches breadth of beam 30 feet 4 inches, depth of hold 12 feet 2 inches, tonnage, 754 tons

She has masts, rigging and sails so that she can make fair headway even if deprived of steam Her anchors and chains are ample for ground tackling, and she is in every way a first class boat which cannot fail to please the people on this or any other route on which she may be placed

Her forks, and spoons and castors and cake baskets, are all of solid silver and were made to order and are in good taste—so also her bedding and has the word Senator woven in the texture

The Commander, Capt Seymore, is well known on this route he having been long engaged in various capacities upon it and always, even as commander highly popular with our people His Clerk is Mr Wm L. Haines, late Clerk of the Governor and more recently of the Charter Oak No man can fill the office more acceptably

☞ The New York Journal of Commerce begins to see that an end must soon come of the purchase of foreign manufacture, when we can pay in nothing but coin Our countrymen have been buying foreign manufactures at the rate of about one hundred millions of dollars a year, under the pressure of 1846 which was made to encourage importations Goods are now cheap in Europe and cotton is very cheap there, because Europe desires money and she never buys freely what she can produce in sufficient quantities at home These excessive importations have caused a drain to be made upon all the extremities of the country to New York to settle the balances of domestic trade, and upon the specie deposits in New York on foreign account to adjust foreign balances with our importers These operations have gone so far that it is now seen that an end must come of it and we must purchase less And it will be attempted to induce foreigners to purchase more of our productions by lessening still more the price

If they were as restless and strong lovers as the people of the United State, something of this kind might answer for awhile, but the system is radically wrong but European people not disposed to purchase what she does not imperatively need, and she will not do so however cheap the products offered The Boston Mail very well says

"All that we can sell, is sold already, at no more than remunerating prices We cannot persuade other nations by purchase of us what they do not want merely for the sake of enabling us to carry out the sublime idea of Free Trade What they do want, they will purchase, and pay for it they can, whether we purchase their fabrics or not What they didn't want, they won't purchase, and wouldn't pay for if they did

Manufacture of Saws.

This is a business which commenced in this city a few years since by Mr Michael Schwartz an industrious and skilful German and has grown into a business of no little importance in the manufactures of our city Mr Schwartz now employs steam power in the manufacture of his saws has fifteen men constantly employed and turns out for this and the Boston market about twenty five thousand dollars worth of saws annually

The quality of the saws manufactured here have been improving in quality with the improved machinery which has been employed and now we understand that all the ship carpenters in our State feel that they are not quite equipped without one of Schwartz's superior handsaws

There is something particularly gratifying to us in the fact of the success of any industrious, honest, intelligent mechanic in establishing a branch of manufactures in our city particularly when that man is not envious of the success of others who in their several departments are engaged in similar enterprises, but who has a hand to help and word to cheer them One such man is of more value to a community than forty who have no enterprise and no industry, and who cannot move only as they are moved by others and borne along and sustained by them

Gloucester Fisheries.

The fisheries of Gloucester employ one hundred and seventy five schrs and sixteen hundred men, and in extent and importance exceed those of any other place in the United States It is the great market for mackerel, halibut, mackerel &c in 1828, but sixty vessels and four hundred men were employed at this place at the neighboring ports of Rockport and Manchester, quite a number of vessels are engaged in the Anticosti fishing business, and the total number from the collection district of Gloucester, including the above places, is nearly two hundred and seventy five sail. The prospects in the fisheries are not very favorable at the present time, in consequence of the low prices of fish, and the fullness of the market

☞ Thanks to Jerome & Co's Express for papers received yesterday, in advance of the mail

☞ We have received from Messrs Redding & Co of Boston a Panorama View of the Battle of Bunker Hill Monument, with a Perspective view of the Monument, accompanied by a descriptive key

This is a very interesting work and well, we had almost said save the trouble and expense of an ascent of the monument At any rate it will prepare one for the view there from and relieve ever after to refresh the mind of the visitor who has once beheld the scene

The description of the battle of Bunker Hill is worth the price of the work

Redding & Co exercise a best taste in getting up their works and are among the most popular publishers of works for the million in the metropolis

☞ The New York Express of Saturday publishes an article signed Clifton, being a Defence of Gen Scott against the fire in the rear from the Secretary of War It is an answer to the Secretary's letter The closing paragraph is as follows

"He (Gen Scott) is now here in America asserting the rights and honor of the army, before Mr Marcy a Court of Inquiry—which, in a few short weeks, unless restrained by the appointed indignation of the American people will transform him into a full fledged Duke—by his dismissal from the service

☞ We have received a communication signed "Armbrook" nothing to do the fact and the causes of the election of Whig town officers to Houlton and administering a rebuke to some of the unscrupulous Loco leaders of the Loco party in that vicinity There is no real name accompanying the communication and of course the article will not be published

☞ The Whigs of Baltimore are determined to be well represented at the coming National Convention in Philadelphia A delegation of fifty from each Ward has been reported and invitations given to all the rest of the Whigs to join the delegation, for the purpose of meeting at the Mass Ratification Meeting

☞ The Liberty League a branch of the Abolition party lately held a Convention in Rochester, New York, and nominated Gerrit Smith, of Peterboro for President and Rev Charles B Foote, of Michigan, for Vice President

☞ There are 214 newspapers published in Pennsylvania, exclusive of miscellaneous publications.

This we believe exceeds the number published in any other State in the Union Ohio boasts of 174, and New York of about 200

☞ The editor of the Cincinnati Gazette says he has seen a letter from Mr Corwin, addressed to a distinguished gentleman of Ohio in which he requests his name not to be brought forward as a candidate for the Presidency

☞ The Lewiston Falls Gazette states that a bed of lime stone has been discovered to exist in the ledge for the track of the Androscoggin and Kennebec Railroad on the farm of E Burrell Esq., in Greene, which appears to be of excellent quality, and in great abundance

☞ An immense Clay meeting was held in New York on Friday evening It is estimated that fifteen or twenty thousand persons were present Eloquent addresses were delivered by David Graham, John W Fowler, Dudley Selden and others

☞ The Whig National Convention meets at Philadelphia today and as they have no Hunkers and Barnburners spirits to quarrel over, they will probably organize and make their nominations the first day

☞ When we see a basket of such fine fresh Salmon arrive in the market at six o'clock on Monday morning, we conclude that monopoly failed in hearing a good sermon on the previous day

☞ Smith's Bridge, leading the stream at the foot of Central street is now in a state of forwardness and soon it will be ready to receive the public travel

☞ Strawberries and green peas have appeared in our market They came by the steamboats

☞ The Penobscot House is again open for company and Capt Burgess in charge of the Larder department

☞ Thanks to Mr W L Haines clerk of the steamer Senator, for Boston and Liverpool papers received yesterday in advance of the mail Also to Capt J W Gennsey, for similar favors.

☞ The Laboratory expresses its opinion of Gen Cass by saying that a more detestable nomination could not be made

☞ Gen Scott has quite indisposed in Washington on Friday, but it was expected that he would leave for Frederick on Saturday

To Young Men.

Young men to you earnestly and sincerely desire an elevation to wealth, fame and useful ness! Do you really cherish the desire of accomplishing something in the world—to act a manly part on the great stage of human life—to perform the part assigned you by your creator and thus answer the great end of your being? Are you desirous of devoting yourselves to intellectual pursuits to the propagation of science and the diffusion of knowledge among men?—Or, would you rather seek one to seek wealth and comfort in the laborious but honorable and profitable pursuits of agriculture commerce and the arts? Either of these you can pursue with pleasure and success, if your natural energies and inclinations direct you in your choice of them, and if, when your choice is made, and you have fully and conscientiously decided on your future course, you bend and exert all your energies to the attainment of her particular object.

It matters little what course you intend to follow, if you keep the object distinctly in view, and labor earnestly for its accomplishment—Two trades or professions, be it observed, can no receive praise at the hands of one individual. He who would be a farmer, cannot consent only with the purposes and dreams, be a merchant

Singleness of purpose can alone raise you to fame and respectability in any occupation whatever These things considered and observed, you need not fear the result Remember that your course must be a liberal one, industriously followed, and it will be successfully terminated

SOUTHAMPTON Friday night

The American steamer Washington has arrived here from Bremen with 114 passengers on her way to the United States.

N P Trist Esq—The St Louis Republican of the 26th ult says, among the passengers brought by the Sarah, from the South last evening was N P Trist Esq who is en route for Washington to which place though a private American citizen he was ordered by Maj Gen Butler

We had the pleasure of an interview with Mr Trist who we had previously known for months during the campaign in Mexico We were not less surprised than pleased to learn from him that he was actually the bearer of despatches such he returned to the United States and as such should report himself to the President on reaching the city of Washington

If there are any who suppose that Mr Trist will namely submit to any such despotic exercise of military power towards a private citizen of the United States, by the President or his Secretary of War, all we can say is they are egregiously mistaken in their man O this the country at large will be soon satisfied ere many moons have passed away

Seven classes of the party to be avoided

1 Those who will calls their parents or disobey their commands

2 Those who pursue the sal bata or scuff a long

3 Those who use profane and filthy language

4 Those who are fast for play truants and waste their time in idleness

5. Those who are of a quarrelsome temper and are apt to get out of the way with others

6 Those who are apt to sit lying and smoking

7 Those who are of a genteel appearance who take pains to be trifling and mischievous and have a disgusting habit of rubbing hands of their young

A young fellow having been asked by a beauty at a dance or school, remarked that he was immediately troubled with an affection of the heart

Why is the most unpardonable sin? The barber because he always pulls his customers hair

Why is the greatest liar—why the man who says he never will utter

From the N Y Tribune

The Heart

Oh could we read the human heart
In strange mysterious depths explore,
What tragedies would there appear
The richest fiction far more

Some from the world and its vanities
Would in deep and burning sighs apply
Which even in Heaven Remorse would reach,
And wash the soul away

Others but not to human eye
Would ever have a single brow
For they would be a holy cry
Of anguish for the broken vow

Others with beaming eyes and looking
Of love would speak to every one
Of whom the heart was fondly thinking
The last and only thought alone

The fire half lights a flash of agony
Slay by a thought that's
While yet it seems to pause and wavered

Or glow not heed yet judge the heart
Through cold and warm
Nor rightly read the record part
That bodes its doom, or opens glory

TUESDAY June 6

During the past week we have had an abundance of rain which makes the driving good

Freights are rather improving—over the Brooks $2 25 and 2 50, Boston agency limits 1,50 and 2,00, Portland 1,50 Fifty vessels are wanted

We see by the Surveyor General's account that there has been over 70 millions feet of lumber surveyed this Spring, but in the last day of June there was last year to the same date and the prospect of selling for the rest of the season looks even better than it has up to this time.

THE BEST TRUSS IN USE

Is DR J W PETERS Patent Chaver Spiral Trust and Pad

New York General Infirmary (Nassau St,)
May 10 1844.

I have examined Dr J W Peters's newly invented Patent Spiral Truss and in connexion with Messrs Theodore Mott, Stevens, and Parker, in their operations of the principle and practice Having no logical reliance upon myself, and used various kinds of Trusses for the last ten years, I gave credit to any one of them, and finding the inadaptation of the same I perceive and the action of this and no such contrivance may achieve, I have no hesitation in recommending it in preference to any I have seen

SAMUEL P LEE, M D &c &c.

To Dr J. W. Peters.—Sir—I comply with pleasure with your request to express my opinion of your Abdominal Supporter for Prolapsus Uteri. I have recommended it in many cases, and have found much satisfaction experienced with its use. It is light, keeps its place well, and gives the support with ease and comfort to the patient. I cheerfully recommend it to the notice of the profession, and who are in search of a perfect instrument.
